Market Commentary & Outlook

Global equities continued to march higher in the third quarter, supported by generally solid corporate fundamentals and positive growth conditions across the major economies. The ACWI IMI – MSCI's broadest measure of global equity performance – advanced 5.32% during the quarter and 17.24% year to date through September (in USD terms). Emerging market equities continued to outpace developed markets during the quarter, supported by continued strength in technology shares and a rebound in the energy sector.

European equity outperformance was driven by the region's ongoing economic recovery, improving corporate fundamentals and investors' perception of a potentially stronger European Union following the French and German elections. The euro appreciated nearly 4% versus the US dollar during the quarter and 12% year to date, driven by expectations for higher inflation and gradual interest rate normalisation by the European Central Bank. Currency strength also bolstered UK returns during the quarter as the Bank of England laid the groundwork for tighter monetary policy to combat inflation.

U.S. equities achieved record highs during the quarter, overcoming mounting tensions with North Korea and weaker GDP growth expectations in the aftermath of Hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria. Within Japan, the release of encouraging economic data in September helped to propel equities higher into quarter end. While core inflation, labour market and industrial production data for August were broadly positive, Prime Minister Abe's decision to call a snap election raised some uncertainty on the policy outlook.

Emerging market quarterly gains were paced by Brazil, which rebounded from the latest presidential corruption scandal amid the country's nascent consumer-led economic recovery. Russia and China also posted double-digit gains for the quarter. More than half of MSCI China IMI's 14.49% quarterly gain was driven by the Information Technology sector, with the balance spread among Consumer Discretionary, Financials and Real Estate (source: Factset).

From a global sector perspective based on the MSCI ACWI IMI, Energy was the leading performer for the quarter, benefiting from the bounce in crude oil prices, followed closely by the Information Technology and Materials sectors. In contrast, Consumer Staples significantly lagged for the quarter, with particular weakness in U.S. and Japanese tobacco stocks.

The performance of William Blair's proprietary quantitative models demonstrated that momentum and earnings trend style factors outperformed during the quarter, while quality, fundamental volatility and valuation underperformed. These style trends were particularly acute within emerging markets (source: William Blair Summit).

The latest high frequency data and surveys indicate that ongoing economic expansion is gathering pace, especially in the Eurozone. At the same time, wage growth continues to be modest across most developed markets, and this is beginning to restrain consumer behaviour. In Q3 2017, retail sales volumes growth decelerated across all major developed economies. From the perspective of corporates, top line growth is currently in the range of 6-10% pa; it is not meaningfully higher across emerging markets. Beyond improving corporate performance, the outlook for the remainder of this year remains relatively benign, as major national elections, especially in Europe, produced outcomes favourable for continued growth.

From a global strategy perspective, we continue to see upside potential to nominal growth in select companies and industries, as expectations do not appear extended. We do not expect the unfolding gradual withdrawal of monetary policy stimulus to be detrimental to growth either in the US or in the Eurozone, where policy action is not expected until 2018. Corporate performance in the 2H 2017 is likely to be stronger in Europe and in Japan, as economic expansion in the US is relatively more mature. Emerging markets are well positioned to participate in the ongoing global expansion and valuations remains relatively favourable. Recent US dollar strength is unlikely to dampen the fortunes of corporates in emerging markets materially.

Performance

Outperformance versus the MSCI Emerging Markets Small Cap Index was driven by positive stock selection across most sectors. Industrials and Financials stock selection were the primary contributors to relative performance. Within Industrials, Brazil's Localiza's, car rental, was bolstered by strong Q217 financial results that were significantly ahead of consensus expectations. Car rental segment growth of 47% Y/Y was driven by a 69% increase in used car sales and a 29% increase in rental days. Within Financials, Bajaj Finance of India was the top contributor, benefiting from loan growth acceleration (+39% Y/Y) which drove better than expected fiscal 1Q18 results. Profitability also improved, with an annualized ROE of 24.4% versus 22.0% the prior year.

These positive effects were partially offset by the underweight Real Estate sector and weak stock selection in the Information Technology and Materials sectors. Within the IT sector, Korea-based electronic equipment supplier, SFA Engineering, weakened after a strong rally in the prior quarter amid profit taking and concerns about the company's failure to secure an order for 6th generation OLED(light-emitting diode) equipment which had been factored into consensus sales estimates. Within the Materials sector, Indian agrochemical company, UPL, was adversely impacted by disappointing fiscal 1Q18 sales results on weaker demand in India and Mexico. Management attributed softness in India to the government's implementation of the nationwide Goods and Services Tax (GST), while Mexico weakness was blamed on drought conditions.

By country, stock selection was strongest in India and Indonesia. The overweight India, Pakistan, Argentina and Brazil, and underweight Korea were positive. These positive effects were partially offset by the underweight both China and Taiwan, the overweight Turkey, and Pakistan stock selection.

The securities listed below are the top contributors to performance for the quarter ended 30/09/2017.

China Lodging is a leading hotel operator in China with good brands and a strong management team. The company is expanding aggressively to capitalize on the opportunity to consolidate the highly fragmented hotel industry. The share price continued to rally during the quarter as China Lodging delivered very strong results that exceeded both company guidance and consensus expectations and management increased its 3Q and full year revenue guidance. The company's continued consolidation of the fragmented industry, increased penetration in the mid/upper scale hotel segment and recent acquisition on the high end hotel segment boosted its growth prospects and lifted investor sentiment.

Bajaj Finance, India-based, is the non-bank finance company of the Bajaj Group. It operates a diversified lending business predominantly focused on consumer and SMEs. The share price continued to strengthen amid Bajaj's solid FQ1 results, with earnings growth of 42% YoY exceeding consensus estimates on higher revenue (loan growth well ahead of management target) and margin expansion. The share price was further boosted by strong investor response to the company's qualified institutional placement to support management's growth strategy.

Magazine Luiza is a leading Brazilian retailer undergoing a major transformation process with the digitalization and integration of its distribution network. The share price more than doubled during the quarter as the company continues to deliver on its digital transformation strategy. Operating momentum accelerated in 2Q17 beating consensus expectations, on higher revenue growth (boosted by 55% growth in e-commerce sales), market share gains and margin expansion.

CVC Brazil is the leading Brazilian travel company with 12% market share. The company markets products through exclusive stores, independent agents and online. The share price strength was underpinned by the company's solid operating performance and positive growth outlook on the back of recovering consumer confidence, improving macro backdrop and synergies related to recent acquisitions.

NMC Health is an integrated healthcare provider in the UAE market. It operates in healthcare (hospitals, day patient medical centers, and pharmacies) and distribution and services segment. The share price strength was largely attributable to the company's continued strong operating momentum driven by accelerating hospital sales growth on the ramp-up of NMC Royal hospital in Abu Dhabi and recent acquisitions in Sharjah, Saudi Arabia and Oman.

The securities listed below are the largest detractors to performance for the quarter ended 30/09/2017.

Fuyao Glass Industry is a locally dominant producer of automotive glass for the Chinese market, with a top-tier position globally. The share price declined amid Fuyao's weak 1H results, mainly driven by FX losses due to RMB appreciation, coupled with investors concerns about margin outlook as the company expands capacity overseas.

Tarena is a professional (vocational) education company in China. The core business is IT education. Tarena employs an education model with three components including live distance instruction, classroom based tutoring, and online modules. The share price weakened amid disappointing 2Q results and management lowered its guidance. The shift in student demographic, coupled with investments in non-IT curricula development, new campus openings and recruiting costs will likely continue to pressure margin going forward. We sold the stock as a result.

SFA Engineering is a dominant player in back-end technology applicable to both LCD and OLED. Following two key acquisitions since 2015, the company is more broadly diversified and is gaining traction in front-end process. The share price dropped on negative investor sentiment after the company lost the bid to supply evaporators to Visionox' 6-Gen OLED line, which the market was largely expecting SFA to win.

Honda Atlas Car is well-positioned in the high-end of the Pakistani auto market. Despite reporting solid results and a surprise dividend, Honda Atlas share price declined amid broad Pakistan weakness on deteriorated macroeconomic and political backdrop.

Travelsky provides back-end software to airlines, which facilitates booking, inventory management, clearing and processing of airline tickets by customers and agents. The share price declined as the company's net profit decelerated by 20% YoY due to the lack of government subsidy for 1H17. However, earnings are expected to reaccelerate in 2H17 driven by its system integration services.

No Investment Advice

This document has been produced for information purposes only and is not to be construed as investment advice or a solicitation or an offer to purchase or sell investments or related financial instruments to any recipients. The investments in the Fund may not be suitable for all recipients. This document does not contain personalized recommendations or advice and is not intended to substitute any professional advice on investment in financial products. Recipients of this document should make their own investment decisions based upon the Fund Documents listed above (which can be obtained free of charge) and in accordance with their own financial objectives and financial resources and, if in any doubt, should seek advice from independent professional advice as to risks and consequences of any investment

Risks - Recipients of this document should be aware of the risks detailed in this paragraph.

Please be advised that any return estimates or indications of past performance on this document are for information purposes only. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance and no assurance can be made that the profits will be achieved or that substantial losses will not be incurred. The value of shares and any income from them can increase or decrease. An investor may not get back the amount originally invested. Where investment is made in currencies other than the investor's base currency, the value of those investments, and any income from them, will be affected by movements in exchange rates. This effect could be unfavourable as well as favourable. Levels and bases for taxation may change. Further specific risks may arise in relation to specific investments and you should review the risk factors very carefully before investing. Intended risk profile of the Fund may change overtime. The Fund is designed for long-term investors. For the most current month-end performance information, please visit our web site at sicav.williamblair.com
