Market Review

Heightened concerns about slowing global growth, rising interest rates and tighter liquidity conditions contributed to the broad selloff across global equity markets in the fourth quarter of 2018. The sharp decline in global equities during the quarter (-13.28% for the MSCI ACWI IMI in USD terms) wiped out positive gains for the year and sent indices firmly into negative territory (-10.08%).

The final weeks of 2018 were nothing short of dramatic, punctuated by the U.S. political dispute over the budget which ultimately resulted in the federal government shutdown. Investors were also rattled by the increasingly volatile nature of U.S.-China relations, including the arrest of Huawei Technologies' CFO on suspicion of violating U.S. sanctions against Iran, further complicating the trade war outlook.

U.S. equities fell -13.52% for the quarter – the worst quarterly performance since 3Q2011, as measured by the S&P 500. The majority of underperformance occurred in December over concerns of higher interest rates and renewed political turmoil ahead of the new congressional session. From a sector perspective, Energy equities were hurt the most (-25.77% for the quarter) as the WTI oil price plunged over 40% to as low as $42 per barrel in December.

European and UK equities trailed on concerns over slowing economic growth, political turmoil in Italy, and increasing Brexit uncertainty ahead of the March 29 deadline for withdrawal from the European Union. Uncertainty surrounding not only the terms of Brexit but the continuation of Brexit itself weighed more heavily on domestically-oriented UK sectors such as real estate and small cap companies more broadly. Amid this difficult backdrop, the MSCI Europe ex-UK IMI declined 13.68% and the MSCI UK IMI fell 12.66% in USD terms during the quarter.

Emerging market equities outpaced developed markets during the quarter, led by strong outperformance in Brazil (+14.28% USD terms), Indonesia (+8.28%), and India (+3.20%). Within Brazil, optimism towards the newly elected government and pension reform prospects supported investor sentiment. The significant decline in oil prices contributed to gains for Indonesia and India on hopes of moderating inflation prospects, given both countries' dependency on oil imports.

Performance

Fourth quarter outperformance versus the MSCI Emerging Markets (net) was driven by a combination of favorable allocation and stock selection effects. An underweight allocation to Energy coupled with strong stock selection within the Financials and Communication Services sectors helped relative results. Within the Financials sector, Bank Rakyat Indonesia Persero and Itau Unibank contributed the most to relative returns. Bank Rakyat was boosted by the bank's robust loan growth in Q3 despite tighter financial conditions, improved macroeconomic backdrop and stronger rupiah currency. Itau shares strengthened amid favorable investor sentiment post the Brazilian presidential election results, upbeat management outlook and real currency appreciation. Within the Communication Services sector, results were boosted by favorable stock selection in the Interactive Media and Services industry and outperformance by Telekomunikasi Indonesia.

Partially mitigating these effects was the negative contribution from the Consumer Staples sector and stock selection within the Energy sector. Within the Staples sector, both the overweighting and stock selection hurt as Tingyi, the Chinese food and beverage company, was a drag. Tingyi's share price fell after the company delivered weak Q3 results and management announced a strategic shift to favor market share gains over profitability amid increased competitive pressure. We exited the position as a result. Within Energy, Oil Search and CNOOC underperformed following strong performance in prior quarters amid the sharp decline in oil prices during the quarter.

From a regional perspective, Emerging Asia was a notable contributor to relative performance, boosted by the India overweighting and stock selection coupled with the Indonesia overweighting and Korea underweighting. Conversely, Latin America detracted, dragged down by Mexico and Brazil stock selection coupled with the Mexico overweighting.

Calendar year underperformance versus the MSCI Emerging Markets was driven by style headwinds, as low valuation stocks outperformed growth-oriented stocks, especially in the second half of the year. From a sector perspective, underperformance was driven by negative results in the Energy, Consumer Staples and Industrials sectors. Within Energy, stock selection was hampered by Argentine oil company YPF. The stock declined amid weak volume growth, broad Argentine market weakness and currency depreciation. Within Consumer Staples, both the sector overweighting and stock selection detracted from relative returns. Raia Drogasil, the Brazilian drugstore chain, weighed on performance as earnings trailed market expectations. Within Industrials, Turkish industrial conglomerate KOC Holdings was a drag, amid the weak Turkish equity market and lira currency depreciation. Partially offsetting these effects was positive stock selection within the Financials sector, as Indian financials strengthened on strong fundamental trends and a smooth recovery from the sector-wide liquidity shock that occurred during the third quarter. HDFC Bank Ltd was a top contributor within Financials. HDFC is the leading private sector bank in India. It reported solid fiscal second quarter results, supporting the share price. Headline quarterly earnings increased 21% Y/Y, which was in line with consensus estimates and driven by strength in key metrics: credit quality, top line growth, and lower expenses. We believe HDFC is well positioned to continue to grow profitability given its strong liquidity, recent capital raise and underwriting/marketing prowess.

Positioning

Seguridade is well positioned to deliver robust top line growth thanks to the improved economic backdrop in Brazil and company initiatives. It should also benefit from higher interest rates and lower corporate taxes. E.Sun Financial Holding is a high-quality employee-owned bank led by a seasoned management team with a track record of value creation. The company's strong SME franchise and superior customer service should continue to drive consistent market share gains while allowing E.Sun to maintain industry leading profitability and asset quality metrics. Information Technology exposure was reduced during the period primarily through position trims. Exposure to Health Care also declined as a result of the sale of CSPC Pharmaceutical Group, amid concerns over Chinese government initiatives to reduce drug prices. From a geographic perspective, notable adjustments were increases to Brazil and India, offset by decreases to China and South Korea.

Outlook

As we begin 2019, surveys suggest that momentum in global growth continued to decelerate at the tail end of last year. Specifically, purchasing manager surveys continue to point to deceleration in the pace of industrial orders growth and subsequent industrial production growth. We regard the deceleration in economic activity in the US to be more about the base effect rather than the end of the current economic cycle. As the impact of highly stimulative fiscal policy unveiled at the beginning of 2018 begins to dissipate, the US economy is likely to slow to 2-2.5% growth, from the high of 4.2% in Q2 2018.

At the same time, we continue to expect the divergence between the US and other economies to begin to normalize. If the rest of the world continues to grow at the current pace, while the US economy slows, the growth wedge and by extension the substantial outperformance of US markets vis-à-vis the rest of the world is likely to moderate from here.

In Europe, near-term indicators of industrial activity continue to decelerate. At the same time, employment and income growth together with corporate balance sheets suggest support for domestic demand growth comparable to the 2018 rate. Italian budget woes have subsided, at least for now. While Brexit uncertainty remains an overhang, we believe the UK Parliament will seek to avoid near-term economic disruption.

The exceptionally strong US economy and rising US bond yields supported the US dollar in 2018, contributing to a challenging year for emerging market economies. Looking ahead, these headwinds are likely to subside. Further, in the final quarter of 2018, the price of crude oil declined by a third, significantly easing constraints on emerging market economies, as many are large energy importers.

The likelihood of a US-China trade deal and de-escalation of tariff wars has risen at the beginning of 2019. Later in 2019 or in 2020, the US is likely to become a sizeable exporter of LNG and petroleum products. It needs to find consumers for its products, which will be relatively more expensive because of shipping costs. China is the largest and fastest growing consumer of such products. Thus, the economic rationale for a trade deal is substantial and imminent.

Last year, China implemented significant and wide-spread changes in its tax structure, especially income taxes. We expect that reducing taxes for households is likely to support consumer demand in China. We are not expecting China to implement a large stimulus, but slow policy changes have been made to keep growth steady. The recently announced reserve rate requirement cut is noteworthy in its size: the reserve ratio for major banks now stands at 13.5%, down from 17% a year ago.

Recent positioning adjustments within our ACWI-oriented strategies generally reflect our incrementally less cautious outlook on emerging markets. Within our dedicated emerging markets strategies, we have added to Brazil and maintained overweighted positions in India. Within China, we continue to emphasize domestically-oriented consumer, healthcare and technology companies that we believe are well positioned to benefit from the economy's ongoing transition to a consumption and services-driven growth model.
