Market Summary

After a difficult end to 2018, equity markets around the world rallied to start the year despite signals of moderating global growth. The MSCI ACWI Investable Market Index (IMI) gained 12.29% in USD terms, the largest quarterly gain since 2010, as investor sentiment was bolstered by a more dovish tone out of major central banks and improved trade talks between the US and China. Developed market equities outpaced emerging markets primarily driven by strength in the U.S. and Canada.

U.S. equities rallied in January (+8.60%) and continued to post strong returns throughout the quarter (+13.99%). Growth in the U.S. remained solid but started to decelerate off of last year's previous highs. The Federal Reserve's acknowledgment of slower economic growth and dovish stance on interest rates helped ease investor sentiment and boosted returns across sectors.

European equities also advanced despite signs of significant deceleration in manufacturing growth. Specifically, purchasing manager surveys continued to point to deceleration in the pace of industrial orders growth and subsequent industrial production growth in the Euro Area. Brexit woes continued to weigh on the economic conditions within the United Kingdom but the market felt some relief following the announcement that the European Union had agreed to delay the Brexit process past the March 29 deadline. The MSCI Europe ex-UK IMI advanced 10.50% and the MSCI UK IMI advanced 12.32% in USD terms during the quarter.

Within emerging markets, the story for the quarter was the rebound in equity performance across China's mainland securities (A-shares), which advanced 33.02% for the quarter, erasing the 32.99% loss incurred in 2018 (as measured by the MSCI China A Onshore Index in USD terms). The A-share market rallied following news of several fiscal and monetary stimulus measures aimed to boost the economy. Additionally, A-shares were bolstered by news that MSCI would quadruple the weighting of A-shares in global benchmarks by increasing the inclusion factor from 5% to 20%. Outside of China, emerging market equities broadly lagged the global benchmark. Rising geopolitical tensions between India and Pakistan weighed on the Indian Rupee and equity market. The MSCI India IMI modestly advanced +6.65% in USD terms for the quarter.

From a global sector perspective (as measured by the MSCI ACWI IMI), Information Technology significantly led the market, driven by strength within small cap software and IT services. Other cyclical sectors such as Real Estate, which sold off sharply in late 2018, rallied during the first quarter of the year. Conversely, Financials lagged primarily due to weakness in Japan.

Performance

Outperformance versus the MSCI Emerging Markets (net) was primarily driven by positive stock selection across most sectors. The Consumer Discretionary, Consumer Staples, Financials and Materials sectors were notable contributors to relative return. Consumer Discretionary performance was boosted by both the portfolio overweighting and strong stock selection, especially within China. Chinese internet giant Alibaba Group Holding and hotel operator Huazhu Group added the most. Following a de-rating in the second half of 2018, Alibaba's share price strengthened during the quarter amid accelerating fundamental trends (improved margins and strong revenue growth), an attractive valuation and improved China backdrop. Structural growth of e-commerce in China should enable mid-term revenue growth exceeding 35%, underpinned by consumption growth, deepening internet and mobile data penetration, and the favorable backdrop for online versus offline adoption. While we acknowledge competitors may leverage mobile positioning to chip away at Alibaba's dominance, we believe that network effects and the strength of its ecosystem underpinned by its logistics and payment solutions should reinforce its competitive advantage. Huazhu Group's share price rebounded sharply on the back of robust operating performance. Within Consumer Staples, Kweichow Moutai, the Chinese liquor company, was a key contributor to the sector outperformance. The stock strength was underpinned by the company's robust Q4 operating results on higher volumes and growth outlook amid continued strong demand for its superior brand and increasing direct sales. Within the Financials sector, Chinese insurer Ping An Insurance Group contributed to relative performance during the quarter. Strong stock performance was driven by robust operating results that topped consensus estimates, bolstered by solid growth in life insurance and fintech, and continued acceleration in the value of new business. UPL, the Indian agrochemical company, was an additional source of outperformance in Materials. Better-than-expected results amid strong organic growth and margin improvement, coupled with a favorable outlook for improved competitive positioning and synergies following the Arysta acquisition drove the stock price higher.

Partially offsetting these effects were negative contributions from the underweightings to the Health Care, Energy and Materials sectors coupled with below average stock selection within the Industrials sector. Within Industrials, Bidvest, the South African industrial conglomerate, detracted from relative returns. Despite delivering solid 1H2019 results and management providing a constructive growth outlook, weaker investor sentiment towards South Africa dampened the stock price. From a geographic perspective, India and Brazil detracted from relative performance. MRF, the Indian tire manufacturer, weighed on relative performance as the company reported weaker-than-expected 3QFY19 results due to near term slowing revenue growth and higher commodity costs.

Positioning

During the period, Consumer Discretionary exposure was augmented to an increased overweighting through the purchase of Motherson Sumi Systems. The company, based in India, is one of the largest manufacturers of wiring harness, rear view mirrors and polymer body parts, with a strong track record of executing on growth by increasing content per vehicle and sustaining market share gains. Within Communication Services we purchased Tencent Music, a recent IPO, 56% owned by Tencent and exited Autohome, the online auto marketplace in China. Exposure to Materials declined as a result of the sale of mining company Sociedad Quimica y Minera de Chile. From a geographic perspective, notable adjustments were an increase to China, primarily offset by decreases to Argentina and Chile.

Outlook

As we begin the second quarter of 2019, domestic demand in key jurisdictions is showing signs of stabilization and synchronized fiscal expansion. Existing home sales rebounded strongly in March in the US, and private consumption growth in the Euro Area is tracking a nearly 2% annualized pace. At the same time, purchasing manager surveys continue to point to deceleration in the pace of industrial orders growth and subsequent industrial production growth.

We regard the deceleration in economic activity in the US to be more about the base effect rather than the end of the current economic cycle. As the impact of corporate tax cuts unveiled at the beginning of 2018 dissipates, the US economy is returning to a growth rate of approximately 2%. The divergence between the US and other economies is normalizing in line with our expectations. If the rest of the world continues to grow at the current pace, the growth wedge and by extension the substantial outperformance of US markets vis-à-vis the rest of the world is likely to moderate from here.

Growth is being supported by fiscal stimulus measures globally. Starting in Europe, the Euro Area is set to experience the first fiscal expansion in a decade. In Germany, Finance Minister Olaf Scholz has set aside approximately €150bn for much needed investment in infrastructure, education, housing and digital technology over the next four years. More immediately, the fiscal stimulus slated for this year will be largely for consumer spending, as higher unemployment and pension benefits, together with a tax cut to lower income earners, is expected to boost purchasing power by 0.5% of GDP. The abolition of the solidarity surcharge, which accounts for 5.5% additional income tax, is set to be reduced beginning this year. Government construction orders soared 12.2% in Q4 2018 from the prior quarter, and will likely advance further in 2019.

In France, President Emmanuel Macron responded to the “yellow vests” movement by announcing measures to boost the purchasing power of households by about 0.4% of GDP. These include cancellation of the increase in social charges on pensions, an increase in the activity bonus for employees paid the minimum wage, and a tax exemption on exceptional year-end bonuses and income from overtime.

In China, the government continues to roll out tax cuts following its 2-year effort to streamline and digitize tax collection. In Q1 2019, the government announced a CNY2 trn tax cut on business activity. Effective April 1, VAT in the top general category will be reduced from 16% to 13%, on top of reductions in the employer contribution to social security from 20% to 16%. Together with household income tax reform implemented last year, these measures will continue to support domestic activity. At the same time, the scope for further adjustments on the fiscal side is not exhausted, as the State Administration of Taxation continues to report an increase in aggregate tax collections in excess of expectations.

The US continues to maintain a highly expansionary fiscal policy stance. Although major corporate tax cuts boosted domestic activity in H1 2018, the US budget deficit is expected to be even larger this year, at nearly 4.5% of GDP, despite the domestic economy expanding at a 2%+ annual pace.

Within portfolios, we maintain our focus on companies with sustainable earnings trends and recurring-revenue business models that add growth visibility at this later stage of the economic cycle. Recent positioning adjustments within our ACWI-oriented strategies generally reflect our incrementally less cautious outlook on China. Within China, we continue to emphasize domestically-oriented consumer, healthcare and technology companies that we believe are well positioned to benefit from the economy’s ongoing transition to a consumption and services-driven growth model.

Past performance is not indicative of future returns. Gross investment performance assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, is gross of investment management fees and net of transaction costs. Performance results will be reduced by the fees incurred in the management of the account. For example, assuming an annual gross return of 8% and an annual management/advisory fee of .40%, the net annualized total return of the portfolio would be 7.58% over a 5-year period. Net investment performance represents the deduction of the account's actual fee. Investment management fees are described in William Blair's Form ADV Part 2A.
